

John,

[redacted] spoke with [redacted], McMahon's secretary, and asked only when the notice came out. [redacted] said she could not remember and referred [redacted] to our office. I checked with OIS/Personnel who said that no MI personnel staff the NPIC registry.

Executive Officer to the DDA

STAT

SUBJECT: Distribution of Employee Bulletin Regarding DDCI Swearing-In Ceremony

STAT

[redacted] 1. On Tuesday, 15 June, [redacted] an NPIC employee, was referred to the DDA by the DDCI's secretary. [redacted] complained that the Employee Bulletin regarding Mr. McMahon's swearing-in ceremony was received by her on 15 June, some four days after the event occurred!

2. Because of the significance of this event and the limited time frame between the DDCI's confirmation and the swearing-in ceremony, the Employee Bulletin was given top priority consideration by the Office of Logistics. Special courier runs were laid on to get the bulletin to all Agency components as fast as possible--the bulletins were delivered to the NPIC registry at 1430 hours, 9 June. I am not able to explain the circumstances regarding the time lag in getting the bulletin from the registry to the NPIC employees.

3. It is requested that you convey the above information to [redacted] so that she has an accurate account of what transpired. If she would like any additional information regarding the distribution of employee notices, please let me know.

In re: Employee Bulletin on McMahon's Swearing-In Ceremony:

1. Logistics Services Division (LSD) received okay to disseminate notices at approximately 1:00 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The notices were in the hands of the National Photographic Interpretation Center's (NPIC) registry at 2:30. NPIC's registry, I'm told, is short of help and determined that the notices were not of an operational nature and gave them low priority for dissemination. Consequently, they were not disseminated on Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday. On Monday, the notices were disseminated to the Divisions within NPIC who then had to break down dissemination for Branches. To the best of my knowledge, NPIC employees did not receive the notice until Tuesday.

2. The shortage of help in the registry and registry's unawareness of the need for priority treatment of the notice are the reasons stated for the late dissemination. I can't address the first part of the problem, but the latter could be cured with some common sense.

3. If you need further information, please let me know.
